Kodak
Readyprint Copier

The KODAK READYPRINT Copier is another major advance in office copying from Kodak. It employs a new, unique chemistry that is completely different from those used in other copy-making processes. At the same time, it offers many of the familiar advantages of Kodak copiers used today in thousands upon thousands of offices the country over.

KODAK READYPRINT Copier

Delivers Copies Fast

Feed original to be copied and sheet of negative paper into machine. Seconds later you have your copy—without "stripping" delay. No question about it . . . the KODAK READYPRINT Copier can really turn out the work—can be used to copy one original after another in rapid succession.

Produces Top-Quality Copies

The results you get with the READYPRINT Copier put it right at the top for quality. Its performance is consistent through a wide range of room temperature—even as high as 90°F! Reproduction is sharp, crisp, clean. And the copies can be handled immediately . . . are long lasting . . . are on clean, durable, bond-type paper.

Is Convenient to Use

No solution to handle—simply insert rigid plastic cartridge, which automatically supplies activator during copy-making, stores it between times, holds enough activator to process approximately 750 copies, or provide a several-weeks' supply. High-speed pump goes into action automatically: no waiting for tray to fill. Copier also has built-in compartments for both negative and copy paper—either 8½ by 11-inch or 8½ by 14-inch size.

Is Easy to Operate

Every member of the office staff will enjoy making copies on a KODAK READYPRINT Copier. Two simple levers do practically all the work—automatically. One exposure setting handles just about any original. Guide clearly indicates settings for unusual originals. Making just one copy will convince you . . . for ease and simplicity of operation the READYPRINT Copier is hard to beat!
